A new trailer has been released for the new action role-playing game, Elden Ring, and it gives us a good idea of what to expect in the game. While it's not very long, the brief video is packed with plenty of action, enough battle data, and some really cool-looking cutscenes. We also get a look at some of the dialogue options in the game, and it looks as if the dialogue can be fairly interesting, including a good amount of character development and some interesting twists in the story. We see plenty of action as well, but the real highlight of the trailer comes from the gameplay. For the first time, we get some in-game footage of some of the action in the game, and while it's not in 1080p, it looks pretty darn good, especially with the music and sound effects. If you'd like, you can watch the full video here. 10.12.11: 13 New Screenshots

Content in development

The Elden Ring—the peaceful organization that upholds balance between the elves and men, has disappeared. The Tarnished, a faction that turned the elf world upside down, is marching toward the elf capital, Valmar. King Sethwin, the royal king of Elden, is nowhere to be found. The magic of the Ruby Rod, an ancient relic, is most likely the cause of this. The fate of the world lies within your hands. Are you willing to take on this challenge and be the hero of the Elden Ring?
