What's new:

Missions in the Twilight of Ethnic Revival Politics Lately our right wing has been hosting a parade of princes, reigning in the name of all that is holy. The curtain of camouflage and decorum has been suddenly torn to shreds, with each of these venerable spiritual leaders posing nakedly as a harbinger of the Apocalypse—in fact, as the final vestige of western civilization. With Osama bin Laden as their ultimate martyr, the Republican Party is a party of perpetual war. With Rev. Billy Graham as this cycle's featured guru, we are supposed to believe that the United States employs the soft power of mass media as a means to spread evangelical Christianity, and that the only war worth fighting is the war on Islamic fundamentalism. With their current front man, Rick Perry, our dear Governor of Texas, has promised to use the power of his office as the Mortal God and reveal the existence of the New World Order. It will be easy to dismiss the recent tribulations of our politicians as no more than the job of bad jokes, and yet it's no joke when we consider the very meaning of their enormous words and the sober commitments that they are making to the rest of us. What is being exposed is not simply a training to be good, taking part in the Party of Purity. What we are being asked to reject is an old American phantasm, the desire for a kind of equality that is never equal, the belief that God is for everyone and our goals ought to be about acceptance and equality for everyone. As we began to look into our counterpoint in the past couple years, we discovered that our primary enemies are not those who want to kill us (or have us killed), and not those who wish to destroy our economy, nor even those who want to destroy our values system, and not even those who want to destroy our cherished way of life. Our very opponents, once we revealed who they are, reveal that they were not really against us at all, since their creed is pure and their enemies are in fact the rioters, the looters, the anarchists, and the bad boys for whom the Reverend Graham wants no rhyme or reason. Rather than face the other side down, they want to meet them and thrash them. This is a dangerous game to play, for we can take none of it seriously and yet we have to hear it loudly, for every word is to be taken as a serious commitment to be carried out by
