1. Open up a new file in Photoshop and set it up for editing. In this step, you'll make adjustments to the image in the layers panel of the Layers palette, which is on the left of the main screen (not visible in this image), as shown in the lower-right area of Figure 3-7. To open this image, choose File→Open. Set the options in the opening dialog box to Pictures/JPG, and then click Open. If the first image doesn't open up properly, ensure that the settings are as follows: Format/Compression: JPEG, Quality: 40-80, and Size: Large. If the image still won't open up properly, try again using the file you just opened or another file that you've opened before. 2. Open the Layers palette. In the Layers palette, make sure that the main window is set to the Background layer. Click the New Layer button (the + sign) to add a new layer to the image. 3. Create the adjustment on the new layer using the tools in the tools palette on the left side of the image window. 4. Click the Move Tool and use the Horizontal and Vertical Tabs on the Horizontal and Vertical Guides to align the adjustment with the image. Be sure to select the adjustment with the Rectangular or Elliptical Selection Tool before clicking and dragging. Drag the adjustment to the image with the mouse. 5. Create a new adjustment on the layer beneath the Background layer by clicking the New Layer button again. 6. Duplicate the image adjustment on the new layer. In this step, you'll duplicate the adjustment you just made using the Select and Copy commands (Ctrl+C or Cmd+C) so that the adjustment will appear on every background layer that already has an adjustment. 7. Back in the first layer, right-click and choose Paste from the shortcut menu. Be sure that the duplicate layer is the current layer, and be sure to check the Transparent check box when pasting so that it pastes into the transparent portions of the layer. 8. To make the adjustment completely transparent, click the Paint Bucket icon (it looks like a bucket with a drop of paint in it) located in the toolbox and then click the Adjustment layer.
