The Adobe Photoshop Website (www.adobe.com/products/photoshop) has tutorials and videos available for beginners to get started using Photoshop. * * * # Use of layered images One of the reasons that Photoshop has become so popular is that it offers several layers for each object, artwork, or scene that can be manipulated. This allows you to manipulate one layer without affecting other layers. Even more powerful is that when you manipulate a layer, you automatically change the other layers in the same document. This is called _layered blending,_ which has several handy uses, such as when you paste in a new version of the picture on top of the existing version. Layer properties in the Layers panel help to define a layer's characteristics, such as the layer's color, blend mode, and opacity. The following sections provide more details about layers. * * * If you're having problems using layers, try the Layers panel options. Make sure that the Source and Opacity settings are set to Normal in the Layers panel Preferences list.

What's New in the Adobe Photoshop CC?

Kim and Alex Zachariah, of Oak Glen, Pa., were married by Supreme Court Justice Stephen F. Baer in Courtroom 5 of the Supreme Court building in Harrisburg. / William Thomas, The Patriot-News by Dave Sims, McClatchy Newspapers by Dave Sims, McClatchy Newspapers HARRISBURG - They called it a mass wedding of 8,000, but there were few details of what it might entail. The idea started as just a whim. "We were sitting on the couch in my living room," said Kim Zachariah, "and we realized that I have a beautiful garden. We were just talking about how much we loved being outdoors. It was all in that moment that I realized I wanted to say I do." They said their vows on an August day in the garden, surrounded by a crowd of family, friends and supporters, including former Gov. Ed Rendell and Philadelphia Mayor Michael Nutter. The couple said they had no plan for a wedding. They had no dates set. No venue. No marriage license. They never had a large wedding with 200 or 300 guests, but the wedding they had in honor of their 5-year anniversary was different. "We didn't think it was special," Zachariah said. "We were just so happy." They started planning online, and Kim called her mother, who talked her husband into it. A month before the wedding, Zachariah said, they have been getting ready for a month. But she also said they had been trying to sell their house for two years. For five years, she said, she had been living at her mother's house in Baltimore and commuting to her job as a real estate agent. She said she also worked at the University of Maryland Medical School in Baltimore before that. Zachariah said her husband, a computer technician and web developer, was also commuting to his job as a computer technician at the municipal court in Harrisburg and to his online video production job. She said she didn't have a lot of free time, and the wedding idea didn't come to them until the day before they were to sign the papers on their house sale. And so they did, and the wedding was on. Kim said a friend who is a minister contacted them and said he would marry them in the garden. And so
